POLICE CHIEFS PLEASE SETTLE DOWN

Don't get me wrong, I understand ticketing is the job of the police chiefs, but I think I can speak for all of us that you chiefs of police are going a bit power crazy. Gentleman, we came here to experience boys state and learn things from the speakers and meetings, and I can definitely say that I've seen at least a few police chiefs pay little to no attention to the meetings, I mean you probably know less about what's going on than the kids who you are ticketing for sleeping. We appreciate you doing your jobs, but just take it down a little. Please. Because I'm sure that night court isn't too happy with the ridiculous amount of delegates down there either. From all delegates, please, just take it down a notch.

ANDERSON FOR GOVERNOR

Hey Delegates! My name is Anderson Leung and I am running for NBS Governor. As Governor you can be sure that I will instill the spirit of a roaring tiger within my fellow delegates. You all have the power; the power to vote and elect positions, which inevitably affects the way in which legislation will be passed in our state. In order to ensure the well-being of the state, opinions from political parties will be regarded with the highest degree of virtue. Once again, my name is Anderson Leung and with your help we can accomplish anything!

CAUCUS REPORTS

The Nationalists

First and foremost, I would like to give congratulations to the delegates who won their primary elections. With elections complete, much progress will be done.

As said by the Federalist Party, we “have an offensive act of personal attack” on them in our videos. This is hysterical and hypocritical in their sense, it’s politics, and obviously, their party is going to respond the same way, as shown in today’s videos.

In conclusion, “chaos” has supposedly driven the rise of a new party. Fellow federalists out there don’t sugar coat it, there has to be chaos present in, your party to. In today’s real world political parties, it is a wild because everybody is striving for the most reasonable ideas for the better of our citizens.

With a formation of a new party, respect should be given. Ideologies of both major parties would be put into input, so federalists, don’t be surprised if some of your members succeed to.

Nationalist state level nominees

- Supreme Court Justices
  - Max Johnston, Las Craigas
  - Kevin Meng, Howard
  - Kendrick Peterson, Howard
  - Chris Rathbun, Jaytown
  - Jacob Ford, Anderson
  - Chace Avecilla, Howard
  - Michael Spencer, Jaytown
- Attorney General
  - Omar Moore, Howard
- Lieutenant Governor
  - Omar Qureshi, Jaytown
- Governor
  - Nick Scipione, Las Craigas

The Federalists

The Federalist Caucus yesterday began with a period for the Federalist candidates to campaign in advance of the primary election. Many candidates took their last chance to raise funds and garner support among their fellow Federalists before the primary.

The primary process with began the speeches by the candidates for the various offices. Jackson Paris, the only candidate for Attorney General, gave his speech on his many qualifications which make him a good candidate. All seven well qualified Supreme Court Justice Candidates spoke prior to their official endorsement by the Federalist Party. These candidates are: Calvin Ruyak from Las Craigas, Jonah O’Connor from Anderson, Parker Miller from Osgood, Gabe Wygant from Martie, Bryce Briggs from Martie, Troy Gingerich from Howard, and Monte Morris from Jaytown.

The next speeches came from Max Demar for Las Craigas and Nick Wolfram from Osgood. In an astonishing phenomenon, the vote was split exactly in half twice. Secretary of State Brian Becker brought the two candidates back into the room for another 30 second speech from each, after which Nick Wolfram from Osgood was announced as the Federalist candidate for Lieutenant Governor.

Finally were the speeches for the Gubernatorial Race: Anderson Leung of Anderson was the first candidate to speak, followed by Parker Randall from Las Craigas. Of these two very qualified and well-rounded gentlemen, the candidate for the Federalist Party will be Anderson Leung.

Congratulations to all of the fine gentlemen mentioned in this article, whether or not you lost or won. All of the above candidates were exceedingly well qualified. Your strength comes in what you did yesterday and all of this week: take action, take risks, and take the shot to make this week what you want it to be. Each and every one of you should be commended for your initiative and courage to step up to the plate and put yourselves out there, regardless of the results.

A REFLECTION ON OUR VISITORS

Superintendent Dale Erquiagua

The typical connotation that people may depict when overhearing the topic of education in Nevada may usually evoke thoughts of unintelligent, worthless, or lazy citizens due to our horrible ranking compared to the rest of the states in the nation. Statistics illustrate the traitorous amounts of student dropouts and the incredibly low graduation rates throughout past years. However, the superintendent of education in Nevada, Dale Erquiagua, is the perfect man to reverse this situation. Not only does he have an amusing name, Erquiagua is taking the right steps to flip our education right side up to ensure a more skillful, creative, and brighter future for the upcoming generations of our state.

Erquiagua and governor Brian Sandoval have been lifelong friends since they were children growing up in Carson City. They work easily together allowing for a more relaxed environment, consequently letting pressure not to be present inside them, which lets their thoughts run more freely. Therefore work is enhanced. This demonstrates one of his most prominent points of advice: relationships are important - no matter what career field one achieves. It's also significantly essential to have a message when using leadership skills. If the audience doesn't recognize a certain theme or purpose, they won't foresee the reasons for completing the task they have been assigned to complete, and no work will be completed.

Quentin Owens

Many people assume UNR and UNLV are not prestigious universities. Due to the fact that a large majority of Nevada high school graduates are provided with such great benefits (i.e. the Millennium scholarship), it doesn't appear "impressive" or "striking" to the general public when one attends these universities, because they are such common schools that are attended in this area. However,

Quentin Owens, the UNR scholar of admissions at the Office of Prospective Students delivered a captivating speech verifying the impressive qualities that both UNR and UNLV have to offer.

One of the most striking qualities that UNR partakes in is the fact that they have the number 2 top engineering program in the entire nation. This is a tremendously remarkable quality because Reno is such a small city. The average citizen typically would not guess that a school such as this is so world renown, thus it proves exceedingly noteworthy that this gem of a program is placed in our town. Along with this, UNR has a world-renowned journalism program as well, further mounting the prestigious qualities of this increasingly prevalent campus. Another interesting fact about Nevada universities is that UNLV houses the top 3 ranked in the nation for hospitality management.

Owens was an exceptionally satisfactory public speaker, and appeared to have a beyond extensive knowledge about both UNR and UNLV. Every question that a delegate had in mind seemed to be no challenge for him, and it is guaranteed that NBS walked out of the auditorium with a much grander familiarity of the two campuses.

SPORTS DAY 3

As the week has progressed the sports scores continued to get tighter, especially considering the fact that yesterday was the last day of delegate-only sports. So without further ado the results are in (view table at right).

Osgood and Howard are in 1st Place, Las Craigas and Anderson follow close behind in 3rd place, with Martie and Jaytown tied for 5th.

Although the city scores for sports are final, today the delegates and staff will face off in the 2015 NBS All-Star sports competition. May the best team win — who am I kidding... let's kick their butts delegates and show them who's boss!

Also please keep in mind it is very important to do your best when playing, but remember to be careful. I say this because there have been some serious injuries in the activities (especially during soccer).

However, no matter the outcome of today's matches we, as the newspaper staff, would like to commend you all for the hard work you have all put into this year's NBS sports season!!

SCORES

City	Win	Loss	Tie
Osgood	5	3	1
Howard	5	3	1
Las Craigas	4	3	2
Anderson	4	3	2
Martie	3	5	1
Jaytown	3	5	1

Jaytown J-walking Continued

The biggest controversy so far at NBS has to be Jaytown being ticketed for jaywalking. Not only was it a whole city, but the ticket came from the most controversial Police Chief, but the mayor of Jaytown is as outraged as can be. It's a battle, and night court is where the battle is taking place. Now a counselor is involved in the controversy.

Jaytown's counselor has now been ticketed by Erick, police chief of Howard, for lying while under oath. Now that's a big no-no. We all know that Jaytown went to night court last night, as a city, for j-walking. There was actually a misprint on behalf of the paper, but yesterday we stated that the police chief of Howard lied under oath. That was actually the Jaytown counselor. So scandalous...

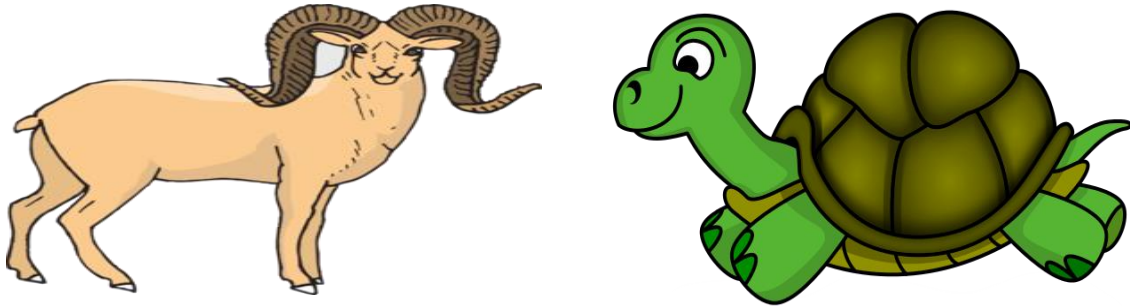

Now to be fair, I'm positive Jaytown isn't the only city to have j-walked. I'm sure all of us have actually, especially because we just follow our counselors, who in fact are our guardians for the week, so not following them is a real world rule break. Not a petty ticket. So it's understandable why Jaytown's mayor and the rest of the city are outraged, I don't blame you at all. I suppose sometimes you're just in the wrong place at the wrong time.

As a regular ticket writer, Erick is not exactly a fan favorite, seeing as he has ticketed a good percentage of all delegates. You are just doing your job though and props to you for continuing to do that even with the delegates screaming in your ear.

In conclusion, in my opinion, this ticket was borderline ridiculous, and if they were just following their counselor, then that's what they should do. Not that it was right for the counselor to lie under oath, that was wrong, but that's the only thing I feel Jaytown really did wrong that was major enough for a ticket. Police chiefs, take some time to experience the program a bit more rather than ruining it for everyone else with ridiculous tickets. Thank you.

IMPARTIALITY IS KEY.

VOTE FOR ME.

Vote Nick Wolfram for Lieutenant Governor

---

Municipal Court Judge Michael Spencer for Supreme Court Justice!

As a Municipal Court judge, I am extremely knowledgeable on the current case at hand, more so than my fellow candidates who have not already been involved in the moot court case. This is the exact same case that will be argued at the Nevada Supreme Court on Friday in front of seven of the most influential political figures in the state of Nevada - the Nevada Supreme Court Justices. Due to this, my love of law, and my participation as a Municipal Court Judge I am one of the best prepared candidates for the position of Nevada Boys' State Supreme Court Justice. If you elect me as one of your Supreme Court Justices, I promise to show the state that we really are the best Nevada has to offer.
